

This translation has been made based on the original collections of the interpretation by JISCBA

January 10, 2008

[Common 7] Concerning marking of an additional JIS Mark

Question:

In case the required certification mark, etc. (JIS Mark, elements to be indicated in its proximity, and element to be additionally indicated) are indicated at a proper position on an industrial and mineral products in compliance with the criteria, is it permitted to indicate another JIS Mark at a different position on the same product?

Interpretation:

If the indication is made satisfying the requirements for the indication of the certification mark, etc. (the indication requirements, etc. of the public notice of the former scheme and those of the general guidance on certification), it is not prohibited to additionally indicate the JIS Mark at a different position on the same product. However, in such case, indicating the JIS Mark only is not allowed either. At least, a logo of the registered certification body must be indicated on the set with the JIS Mark.

End of text